HOAGLAND'S
NEW PATENT SHAFT COUPLING!
W. E. COOPER
HAS PURCHASED THE RIGHT FOR THIS County of the above Patent, and will hereafter use it in the construction of all the Vehicles manufactured at his extensive
Carriage Factory,
Corner of Second and Morrison Streets.
He respectfully refers to the following
CARD.
Having examined the New Patent Shaft Coupling, invented by H. R. Hoagland, we feel pleasure in informing the public that in our opinion it is the safest and best method of connecting shafts or tongues to all vehicles that has ever been used.
It fastens without bolt or screw, and is therefore, easily and speedily separated. It rests on Gutta Percha so as to be entirely free from the rattling sound which so often disturbs restless horses. It is easily changed so that the shafts or tongue may be detached in an instant, and is convenient, safe and secure.
It is easy to change to this style of coupling any buggy or other vehicle now in use, and with small expense. We have come to the conclusion to use this new invention ourselves and recommend its use in all cases. We consider it far superior to the Brewster Patent, heretofore considered the best in use.

[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

DATES TO OCTOBER 5.

Heavy Storms at the East.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—A very heavy rain storm has prevailed here since Saturday night. The lower part of the city is partially flooded.

Noon—The storm has subsided and it is now clear. Advices from the central part of the State report damage done to the Central and Erie railroad. A portion of the Harlem road was washed away and some bridges are gone. A freshet has occurred on the Schuylkill river and on the Philadelphia and Reading railroad. Several freight cars were washed away. Some damage was done to the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, especially to the telegraph poles.

The rain which commenced at midnight on Saturday lasted till this morning. The railroads south, east and north, are much damaged by heavy freshets and gales. The tracks of the Central, Hudson and Harlem roads are washed away in many places. The Delaware river is twenty feet higher than on Friday. The freshet in the Schuylkill carried off several freight cars belonging to the Pennsylvania Central railroad, and swept away large quantities of timber, merchandise, wagons, etc., besides even mules and horses. Many houses in the city are flooded. In some cases the occupants escaped in boats. The water rose seventeen feet at Morristown. Two boys were drowned. The damage is immense. The Lehigh river rose fifteen feet. Great damage is also reported in Baltimore, where the foundations of many buildings were washed away. Russell, Beardsall & Ward's iron-bolt works, near Port Chester, New York, are badly damaged. Ten persons were seriously injured. Their loss is $100,000.

Accounts from different sections showed that the storm has been general. Considerable damage has been done to the telegraph, and except the cable it is much interrupted. Breaks are reported in the canal in various places. Travel on many of the railroads is totally or partially suspended on account of bad breaks.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Oct. 4.—The fall of water reached eight inches. The village of Westfield was inundated. The reported loss amounts to $100,000. No trains have run on the Hudson river road since early this morning. Near Castleton two hundred feet of road bed, on both tracks, has gone. Bridges and culverts at various other points have gone. The Harlem is in the same condition with the Boston and Albany roads. The river commenced rising this morning and the water now covers the dock and is still gradually rising.

New York News.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.

The gold board to-day voted to establish a clearing house, and until Monday next all transactions will be done in the exchange clearing house.

General Fremont's suit against the Kansas Pacific railroad is removed to the United States Court.

James Brown & Co. have commenced suit in the United States Court for $2,000,000, the difference on seven millions of gold sold by them through Albert S. Keyer, at 160, on Friday, to Fisk & Gould.

The increased rates of freights west went into effect to-day. To St. Louis, 70 cents; Chicago, 50; Cincinnati, 48 per 100 pounds. Others in proportion.

Washington News.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—An adjourned session of of the Superior Court has commenced. No quorum was present.

Much damage was caused here by the storm. Canal and bridges were washed away. Houses were damaged, etc., but no lives were lost.

The government has information that the Cuban privateer Hornet put in at Wilmington, N. C., from whence the United States Marshal has telegraphed for instructions.

Memphis Dispatch.

MEMPHIS, Oct. 4.—Waddy Thompson, charged with complicity with the Custom House frauds in New Orleans, came before Commissioner Morrison to-day. His case was continued until the 15th of December, owing to the absence of an important witness.

Pittsburg Dispatch.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 4.—On Sunday afternoon, a boy of seven years, leaning out of the window of his father's house, was shot through the head and instantly killed by an unknown person. It appears no one saw the shooting or heard the report.

Southern Commercial Convention.

LOUISVILLE, Oct. 4.—Governor Chamberlain of Maine, has appointed a full delegation to the Commercial Convention. Governor Geary of Pennsylvania, has also appointed a full delegation.

A number of railroads will carry passengers to and from the Commercial Convention at half price. Fully twenty thousand persons will be present at the opening.

St. Louis Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 4.—The Ninth Annual Fair of the St. Louis Agricultural and Mechanical Society, opened to-day under most favorable auspices. The weather is fine and the attendance good for the first day. All the departments are unusually full, especially those of agricultural implements and stock. Illinois sends the largest number of cattle, but Ohio, Kentucky, Michigan, Iowa and Missouri, are well represented.

More About the Storm.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 4.—The storm has caused great damage in this city, tearing up pavements, bursting sewers, etc. The city's loss, at a low estimate, is $50,000. Great damage was done to cellars and unfinished buildings. The sewer on Ella street caved in while a wagon, containing three persons, was passing. All were precipitated ten feet. One of the party, it is feared, is fatally injured.

BETHLEHEM, Oct. 4.—The Leigh river has risen fifteen feet. The damage along the valley is immense. The railroad tracks are submerged and no trains are running.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—The rain storm was unprecedented. About midnight the whole reserve force of the seventh precinct was called out to give assistance to families on Surdis Court, near Pennsylvania Avenue and on First street. The tide having overflowed into the Court, the officers were obliged to wade in the water breast high to rescue some women and children. Considerable damage was done by the overflow of the Potomac.

SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 4.—It has rained heavily for the past 48 hours. No trains have arrived at Mauch Chunk. The freshet is great. Twenty boats went over the dam at Lackawanna. The coal company's rolling mills have suspended work on account of the flood.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 4.—The water in the Schuylkill is above all the wharves. Six cars were carried away from the Pennsylvania track, and ninety-four others were turned bottom up by the flood.

The Cuban Privateer.

WILMINGTON, N. C., Oct. 4.—The Hornet, alias the Cuba, appeared off Smithville Saturday evening, flying Cuban colors. It is definitely ascertained that she has 200 men and 30 officers on board. The majority of the latter are ex-Confederates. She anchored inside the bar and sent the purser and engineer to this city to secure some coal. The officers engaged coal and returned to the vessel. About 12 o'clock last night, Collector Rumley chartered a steam tug and early this morning placed her in charge of a Deputy Marshal with part of his force, with a warrant from the United States Commissioner, with orders to detain the vessel until noon to-day. The Marshal seized the Hornet at Smithville and brought her up and anchored one-half mile below the city. A number of her officers are now in the city and seem positive that there is no pretext under which she can be detained longer than the time it is necessary for the authorities to investigate her armament and crew. She is a formidable vessel and is represented as having great speed. She is short of provisions and coal now, and her machinery is considerably damaged.

SAVANNAH, Oct. 4.—The Morning News has reports from Florida of the steamship Alabama. She was at Fernandina on Friday night with 400 men, including 60 officers, for the Cuban expedition now in rendezvous on the Gulf coast. The men were immediately sent by rail to Cedar Keys, where steamers await them. Three hundred men arrived at Baldwin, Florida, Saturday night from Savannah. They are supposed to be a portion of the command now organized in Georgia.

Omaha Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—An Omaha dispatch says the Union Pacific carpenter and car shop was burned last night. Loss, $30,000. The machine shops were saved with great difficulty.

Wm. H. Brodhead killed Geo. Davis, cook of the Metropolitan hotel yesterday in his room. Davis leaves a wife in destitute circumstances. Brodhead alleges that Davis attempted to outrage his little daughter, aged 8 years.

From Montana.

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—A telegram from Fort Benton announces the arrival of a party from the mines in the British possessions. They report the mines rich, but the Indians are troublesome. They found three emigrant wagons captured by the Blackfeet Indians last year and the remains of women and children murdered by them.

The Gold Clique.

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—The Tribune's New York special says the Sun publishes a letter from Jas. Fisk, Jr., quite damaging to Corbin, the President's brother-in-law. Corbin has been entirely in the interest of the gold clique in the recent speculation and constantly communicated with Fisk about it. Corbin organized and carried on the work before Fisk knew of its existence. Corbin's representation of influence he could bring to bear in favor of the project, enlisted other gentlemen of means and capacity in the scheme. Fisk says he had repeated interviews with Corbin, and visited Washington about the time of the great panic in Wall street.

Richmond Dispatch.

RICHMOND, (Va.) Oct. 5.—Considerable excitement prevailed in this city to-day over the arrival of the Legislature. To-night both parties went into caucus. The Wells Republicans adopted resolutions to enter a protest on the journal of the Legislature against the admission of members who have not taken the iron clad oath. Walker men are engaged with the nomination of officers of the Legislature. No mention of United States Senator was made. The Walker members of the House of Delegates adjourned till to-morrow, which is taken as an indication that John B. Crenshaw, member of the Society of Friends will be elected Speaker. The only new name presented in political circles for the Senatorship is Douglass Wallach, of Washington, who is now in this city. Much excitement was created in political circles to-day by an anonymous rumor that Horace Greeley, whose name has been mentioned in connection with the Senatorship, had arrived in the city. Of numbers who applied for certificates of election, General Canby refused twenty, on the ground that they were ineligible under the fifteenth amendment. Nine of them afterwards received certificates on their making affidavit that they were not disqualified.

Troubles in Spain.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—The Herald's special from London, says there has been an interruption of telegraphic communication between England and Spain to-day. It is attributed, in part, to a storm on the coast, but in the main to the cutting of the telegraph wires which communicate with various parts of Spain by the insurgent forces operating at certain points in the interior. Latest advices to hand report a battle at Espera Florra between the government troops and a Republican force mustering $1,100. The revolutionary troops were compelled to retreat to the mountains after an obstinate resistance, during which they lost 40 killed and 60 wounded and 22 prisoners. The government troops lost 20 killed and 38 wounded.

The American Cuban diplomatic difficulty is regarded as terminated. The Spanish government refuses all offers of foreign mediation, maintaining that the shape of the condition of affairs in Cuba is a domestic question entirely. Sickles submitted to the Madrid Cabinet a note formally withdrawing the tender of mediation by the United States.

Privateer Hornet.

NORFOLK, Oct. 5.—Washington dispatches state that on the reception of the news that the privateer Hornet had put into Wilmington, N. C., and was under seizure by the United States Marshal, the President called a meeting of the Cabinet. After consultation it was decided that a privateer could come into a port of any nation under stress of weather and remain 24 hours without molestation or detention. She was allowed 24 hours to remain and obtain supplies, and will be released by the Marshal after the expiration of the time deducting the time she was under seizure.

The Storm at the East.

NEW YORK Oct. 5.—Accounts from various points in New England, this State and Pennsylvania, give details of damages to railroads and the places on the banks of the rivers from the flood. Very few fatalities are reported, but great quantities of property are destroyed and carried off. The weather is quite cold.

Miscellaneous.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Oct. 4.—Dewitt C. Robinson, Superintendent of the Evansville and Wabash Telegraph Company, died suddenly of heart disease this afternoon, while making entries in his book.

HARTFORD, Oct. 4.—In this city the Democrats elect their entire ticket of town officers by 600 or 700 majority.

LOUISVILLE, Oct. 3.—The fall meeting on the Woodlawn course commenced to-day. It was successful in every respect. The first race was two-mile heats for three year olds for the gold horse stakes of $2,000. It was won by Exchange. Time, 3:44 and 3:40½. The second race was for three year olds, mile heats, best two in three. It was won by Luce in two straight heats. Time, 1:52 and 1:48¾.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

MADRID, Oct. 4.—A special to the Herald says the insurrection is still maintained by the Republicans who have cut the telegraph wires leading to the Provinces, and stopped the railroad trains from carrying the Government dispatches. Madrid remains quiet.

A Vienna special to the Herald says the Austrian Government organ has stated that Napoleon will probably open the French Legislature and by the announcement that the Government has agreed upon a Federal disarmament.

The Cortes opened yesterday. The Government introduced a bill to suspend the rights of individuals until the revolution in the south is suppressed. The rebellious movements of the republicans will have the immediate effect to suspend constitutional guarantees and invest the Government with extended powers for the suppression of the insurrection. It is probable that if a bill is demanded by the Government and is passed, the republican delegates will leave the Cortes.

It is asserted that the United States government has renounced all idea of interfering in case of Cuba.

LONDON, Sept. 4.—Some time since a person was admitted to Kings County Hospital, having met with a serious accident. He has been identified as either Kelly or Deasy, Fenian prisoners rescued from the police at Manchester. Armed policemen now guard the Hospital to prevent an other rescue.

PARIS, Oct. 4.—The Mayor, with the Emperor, attended the races at Bois de Bologne yesterday.

All the reports received here of the progress of the republican movements in Spain show that it is confined to the town of Reuss, nine miles from Aragon, which has declared for liberty. It is said that ex-King Ferdinand, of Portugal, has by this time accepted the Spanish crown, but if this combination does not succeed in eight days Spain will be a Republic.

FLORENCE, Oct. 4.—The Italian government has decided not to oppose the attendance of the Bishops at the Ecumenical Council.

OUR SAN FRANCISCO DISPATCH.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 5.—At noon, a number of the Board of Underwriters, members of the Fire and Water Committee of the Board of Supervisors and others, visited the corporation yard to examine the hose there. They found about 6,000 feet in tolerable condition, but no formal or authoritative report of their examination has been made.

G. B. Burnwell, C. W. Wright, James B. Bradford, Nathaniel P. Sheldon, James P. Andrews and Moses Robinson, bankrupts, had final certificates of discharge granted them by Judge Hoffman in the United States Court to day.

Dr. Isaac Rivas has received the appointment of Mexican Consul for this city.

The Cincinnati Red Stocking Club left for Sacramento this afternoon on their way home. A banquet was given them last night at Pacific Hall by the Base Ball Clubs of San Francisco.

The Occidental Insurance Company have declared a dividend of one per cent. per month for the quarter ending September 30th.

Organization of the W. T. Legislature.

OLYMPIA, Oct. 5.—Both branches of the Legislature are permanently organized here, with William McLane as President of the Council, G. H. Stewart as Speaker of the House, and Miss E. Peebles as Enrolling Clerk of the House.

A report was circulated on Friday to the effect that the Indian Reservation at Puyallup had been abandoned by the Government, which caused quite a number of speculators to go there to locate claims; but the Indians, numbering 500, [illegible] them off, [illegible]. The abandonment of the Reserve has been contradicted by the Indian Agent here.

Horrible Discovery.

THE SKELETONS OF THREE MURDERED MEN FOUND IN MISSOURI.

The Leavenworth Times, of September 15th, has the following:

Early in the summer three human skeletons were found under a house at Parkerville, under the following circumstances: A boy, son of the people residing in the house, had borrowed an axe of a neighbor, which, instead of returning, he placed under a rock forming part of the building. Some time after, being asked by the neighbor what he had done with the axe, he told him where he had placed it. On going to the [illegible] and rolling away the stone to obtain the axe, a human skull was brought to light. Further investigation by digging resulted in the startling discovery of three human skeletons of men only covered with a slight depth of earth. The teeth of one was found to be filled with gold fillings, proving that they were the skeletons of white persons. The excitement produced by so horrible a discovery was intense, and only recently had it subsided. Fresh horror is now added to it by a discovery which may throw some light on the terrible mystery. On Monday last, a little girl, daughter of the family at present residing in the house, went to a closet to hang up some clothing. Instead of coming out backward, as almost everybody would, and as undoubtedly a great many had done who had visited the closet perhaps a hundred times, she turned around in the narrow closet and started to walk forward, and thus out of it, when her attention was attracted by something on the wall before her (which, for the very reason stated, had escaped the notice of those who had previously visited the closet); calling the attention of the family to it, they were horrified to find the following: "John Brink, California, Missouri. Should I not get away with my life, will some one report me to Dr. M. Cotter, California, Missouri. They are trying to murder us. February 2, 1857." Undoubtedly this has a connection with the bodies under the building, and may lead to some developments which will show that murder most foul was committed, and that one of the skeletons found was that of the writer of the above, and the others of companions whom he indicates were with him. The idea occurs to us that those men may have been "Free State men," either on their way to, or kidnapped from Kansas in 1857, and killed by "border ruffians."

Punishing Children.

In a multitude of cases parents make hasty and furious and utterly groundless charges against a child, which has so taken it back that it could not make a reply, and this has been taken as a tacit confession of guilt, and the next question proposed in fury is, "what did you do it for?" And the child being thus confused and more alarmed, cannot assume presence of mind and composure enough to make a denial, and as the only alternative bursts into a kind of hysterical crying. Many parents are of such temperament that when a child cannot be induced to utter a word under scolding, they utter threats which are a disgrace to civilization; we have heard them ourselves, from affectionate, indulgent and Christian parents, "I'll knock you down with a log of wood," "I'll break every bone in your body," "I'll beat you within an inch of your life," and other similar bestialities of expressions from educated and civilized minds; at least that passed as such in the great world.

There is one safe rule applicable in the reproof of children; speak so low to them that no person ten feet away could hear what was said. Angry feeling is intensified by a loud utterance. Another good rule is not to rebuke them in the presence of a third person; or if so, let it be in a soft and affectionate tone. A third precaution, and it is not a minor one either, is, do not reprove on the instant; wait a few hours; if not until the next day, or, better still in many cases, defer it until the occasion is about to occur when the fault might likely be repeated. Any intelligent and observant housekeeper knows that if a steak is put on this morning and burnt into a crisp, bouncing up from the table, running into a kitchen and blazing away at the cook is neither lady like, nor wise, nor polite. But next morning, just before the steak is about to be cooked, be in the kitchen, and ask that it be not overdone as yesterday, with some word of encouragement. Whatever servant is not managed in this way had better be dismissed. Now, children are as ignorant as a servant; the minds of both are weak, and may easily be made perverse alike. Be assured, reader, that if you make it an inflexible rule never to scold above a whisper, you will never outrage your child's feelings, nor fracture its skull by a blow dealt in ungovernable fury.—Hall's Journal of Health.

WEDNESDAY MORNING OCTOBER 6, 1869

Telegraphing in the United States.

There is much interesting matter in the recent report of the President of the Western Union Telegraph Company to the stockholders of that corporation The report gives us a view of the extent of telegraphic facilities throughout the United States, and presents a statement of the affairs of the great Western Union Company who own nine-tenths of the lines throughout the country The extent of country covered by their wires may be appreciated from the following extract

> On the Eastern coast our lines extend from Plaister Cove on the Gulf of St. Lawrence, to Indianola, on the Gulf of Mexico, and on the Western coast from Los Angeles, California, to the fisheries on the Kishyox river, eight hundred miles north of New Westminister, British Columbia They reach across the continent, from the Atlantic to the Pacific ocean, and embrace every State and Territory in the Union but Minnesota, New Mexico and Arizona, and include the British Provinces of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick Our lines have also an exclusive connection with those in Newfoundland, Canada, Minnesota, Wisconsin and New Mexico, and with the Atlantic and Cuba cables.

Of course in a business so extensive as this a vast amount of capital is represented. At the organization of the Company in 1851, its capital was $360,000. But by the absorption and extension of new lines and the issue of new stock, the capital has increased immensely, so that last July the Company paid a dividend on stock representing $40,568,300 At present the gross receipts are about six hundred thousand dollars a month, the expenses are about three hundred and seventy-five thousand, and the net profits a little over two hundred and ten thousand. The debt of the Company, which was begun in 1864, by the issue of two million dollars in bonds, now amounts to $4,634,100 Nearly all this debt becomes due in 1875. It was nearly all incurred in the attempt to connect with the Asiatic and European lines by way of Behring's Straits, which was abandoned when the Atlantic cable had been successfully submerged. The sinking fund now amounts to $521,000. The net profits of the Company from all sources during the last three years have amounted to $8,179,474 44. About one-half of this sum has been paid out in dividends, and the balance has been used in the construction of new lines, and for various other items of expenditure.

The following statement presents the aggregate of lines, wires and stations in the United States

Number of miles of line belonging to Western Union system	66,263
Number of miles of wire belonging to Western Union system	121,595
Number of stations belonging to Western Union system	4,692
Number of miles of line belonging to rival companies	6,775
Number of miles of wire belonging to rival companies	9,100
Number of stations belonging to rival companies	337
Total number of miles of line	73,038
Total number of miles of wire	130,695
Total number of stations	5,029

It will be seen from this statement that the Western Union Company controls nearly all the telegraphs in the country,—the length of lines owned by other companies being quite insignificant in comparison with the length of the Western Union lines.

During the past year the amount of news furnished to the press by the Western Union Company was 39,508,830 words, for which the company received $[illegible]39,509, or at the rate of two and three [illegible] mills per word. It is seen that this amount of news furnished largely exceeded the telegraphic correspondence of continental Europe, for which $7,837,238 in gold was paid.

The President of the Company protests against the proposition for the Government to build rival lines, and maintains that it would be unjust for it to enter this field as a competitor with private capital. "While I believe," says he, "that the telegraph can be more satisfactorily and economically conducted under [illegible] public control, and that its assumption by our Government would be a mistake, still, what I have so strenuously opposed is not the purchase of existing lines, for the purpose of establishing a national system, as has been done by England and other European countries, but the unjust proposition for the Government to build rival lines and engage in the telegraph business as a competitor. Upon these points I coincide with the views expressed by the Committee on Post Offices and Post Roads, that two systems of telegraphs, one public and one private, cannot operate side by side with success to either or with benefit to the public. The functions of the Government are necessarily exclusive, and whenever it formally undertakes any service as proper to be exercised by it, private parties must be excluded from the performance of the same service"

In General.

The Democratic press seem disposed to make the Stowe-Byron controversy a political issue. Their intense hatred of Mrs Stowe as the author of Uncle Tom's Cabin, is at the bottom of the matter. As near as any one can make it out, the Democratic platform at present therefore seems to be, "D—n the Chinese!" and "Byron didn't."

California papers show that the charges on the Central Pacific road continue largely in excess of those on the Union Pacific. The Central Pacific charges $2 95 per 100 pounds to Uintah, 750 miles east of Sacramento, while the Union Pacific charges only $1 60 for carrying the same weight from Uintah to Chicago, a distance of 1,474 miles Persons desiring to make special arrangements for carrying fruits and wines over the roads state that they can get much more favorable terms from the eastern than from the western company.

A long time ago the Commercial advocated the policy of imposing special taxes on Chinese, but it has recently corrected this error by showing the unconstitutionality of such taxation. The Herald, noticing the change spitefully inquires "What has caused the Commercial to turn such a somersault, we would like to know?" This question is not addressed to us, but we ask permission to answer it, as we can do it in three words. The answer is that the Commercial is capable of learning something, while the Herald is not The former paper has sense enough to change its opinions for good reasons, while the latter evidently has no capacity of the kind

The dissensions of the Democracy in New York City continue On the evening of the 20th September the Union General Committee assembled and adopted an address bitterly denouncing Tammany "The leaders of Tammany Hall," says the address, "having obtained their positions years since, have retained them in defiance of the wishes of the party, by a system which they have invented to deprive the people of all voice in the choice of their representatives. Thus secure in power they have defied public opinion, using their positions for the purpose of enriching themselves by means which have brought odium upon the Democratic party, and made the corruptions of the New York City government a by-word throughout the nation It thus appears that the charges which have been made by the Republicans against the corruptionists of New York are fully substantiated by Democrats themselves

The San Francisco Commercial Herald reviews the crop reports from England, and concludes that a deficient harvest in that country has now become a matter of certainty It is estimated that this deficiency will not be less than thirteen per cent, and possibly fifteen per cent Last year England imported only 50,000,000 bushels of wheat including flour reduced to wheat against 65,000 000 bushels the year preceding, but it is gratifying to know, that while the general demand was greatly decreased by reason of her own abundant and excellent crop, her requirements from the United States increased from 15,000,000 bushels in 1867 to 22,000,000 bushels in 1868 Various estimates have been made of her foreign demand for the next twelve months While some place it as high as 60,000,000 bushels, none make it less than 64 000,000 The larger part of this demand will be supplied from American crops

The Herald says "When we assert the right to tax coolies, the OREGONIAN goes back twenty years to get an authority to quote against the modern one in point, that we produced" Does the Herald think it reputable to make false statements, knowing them to be false? It knows that the "modern authority" which it cites (the Idaho decision), denies the right to levy special taxes on Chinese, instead of affirming it. It knows that this Idaho decision is against the position it has taken, and not in favor of it It knows that the Idaho Court has reasserted the principles laid down by the Supreme Court of the United States on this subject. And yet that paper persists in repeating the statement that the Idaho Court is an authority in favor of these special taxes. Is this deliberate publication of statements known to be grossly untrue the Herald's idea of respectable journalism? Misstatements, when attributable to ignorance, are often pardonable; but when they are willfully and knowingly made, they become unpardonable falsehoods.

Manual Labor.

The last number of the New York Nation which has come to hand contains an admirably [illegible] article on the labor problem and the great difference between the [illegible] and practice of those who are loudest in their pretensions as the "laboring man's friend." Speaking of the [illegible] worshippers of manual toil, it says

"Now, we cannot help thinking that the talk of this class, and, in fact, of the whole non-laboring class, about the dignity and delights of manual toil, has had, and is having, a very unfavorable influence on the labor problem, because it has had, and has, a very unfavorable influence on the feelings which the workingmen bring to the discussion of it. It was an easy thing for mediæval monks to teach mediæval serfs that not only was labor a duty, but a highly elevating and dignified employment, because the monks practiced what they preached and made their hoeing and ploughing expressions of devout feeling In talking in this way about labor, they were unconsciously going through the necessary process of adapting the ends of morals to the social agencies of the age. The world was full of violence, of insecurity, and poverty. The race was sinking into the blackest barbarism, because some men would not work and others had no motive to work. Something had to be done to glorify toil and supply a motive for engaging in it—the ordinary motive, the hope of enjoying its fruits, being for the moment no longer in existence. But when merchants, and bankers, and capitalists, and Protestant clergymen, and editors, and lecturers took up their tale, and after getting up in the morning about eight o'clock, putting on clean linen, taking a leisurely breakfast with their families, reading the papers, went to their snug offices or libraries, and began in their easy-chairs to paint the delights of rising at six, putting on a greasy or mud-bedabbed suit, and toiling to dig all day long in a wet ditch or hammer in a smoky forge, and recommended all men to follow it as a truly noble, not to say sacred, calling, the theory began rapidly to break down. Workingmen began to feel that they were the objects of an elaborate but very transparent attempt at imposition. They saw the preachers not only avoiding manual labor themselves, but doing their best to save their sons from it. They accordingly began to suspect the whole body of what are called 'educated men' of humbug, or something very like it."

"When the clean shaven, oval-nailed, well-booted, and well-tailored lawyer or doctor, or banker tells them that he is a workingman himself, and that the only difference between him and them is that he works with his head and they with their hands, they simply laugh derisively. He is nevertheless right; he is a workingman, and his work is a good deal harder and more useful than theirs, and if it were not for it, they would be serfs under the lash, or howling savages in the wilderness; but when he pretends to consider the laborer's work as being just as dignified and agreeable as his—as work, in short, to be liked for its own sake, just as his own—he is guilty of an attempt at deception which is now hardly ever successful"

The Nation concludes that it is about time this humbugging was stopped, and the labor question discussed in soberness and truth, and in accordance with the facts of life

An Interview Between General Sherman and Mrs. Dr. Walker

[Told by the Cincinnati Commercial Sept 18]

The presence of Mrs. Dr Walker at the Woman's Convention, renews the recollection of an interview, which took place between that somewhat remarkable person and General Sherman, at Atlanta, during the war, and several weeks after the city had been captured. By some means known only to the mysteries of the female mind, the woman doctor had been able to avoid the order forbidding any of her sex to enter the city, and with a degree of perseverance peculiarly her own, she walked into the private room of Gen Sherman, and demanded a commission in the medical department of the army The fact is not publicly known, but General Sherman is weak when a woman is concerned—that is to say, he would run rather than have hard words with one of them, and the tears of a female rebel had more terror to his soul than a thousand Beauregards. So when the little doctor renewed again and again her demand for an appointment the General, like a great soldier, as he is, changed tactics in the face of the enemy.

"Why dont you wear proper clothing? That toggery is neither one thing nor the other," said the General, as he pointed his finger to the nondescript garb of the doctor

"Well, General," replied the young woman, "I suppose you would like to see me in hoops, and heavy skirts dragging down my hips, to the destruction of health and comfort? What right, sir, have women who bear children thus to destroy their best powers and unfit themselves to be wives and mothers?"

This, and much more, she said about woman's reforms

The conqueror of Atlanta was somewhat taken aback by this charge of horse, foot and dragoons, but he plucked up courage

"Did you ever bear any children?" he asked, with sardonic emphasis

She had to admit that she had not done anything of the kind

The General added severely

"I don't know that I should especially desire to see you, hoops or no hoops nor do I see any need that women should be injured by wearing them, or the moderate use of the costume of the day but I do know for a certainty that you and such as you put on that dress from affectation If you wish an example of what a woman should be and ought to do—Damnation" cried the General, getting excited, "what are you here for anyhow? Breeches or no breeches, the President's wife would not dare to disobey orders Put on decent clothes, go back to Nashville, enter the hospitals where our poor boys are dying of wounds and fever, and imitate the example of the women in hoops and petticoats, who are devoting their time to the work of nursing"

We think Mrs Dr. Walker went North upon an early train."

If you and your sweetheart vote upon the marriage question, you for it and she against it, don't flatter yourself as to its being a tie

FRESHEST GLEANINGS

Edwin Booth will devote himself and his theatre in New York this winter mainly to a reproduction of "Hamlet" and "A Winter's Tale"

A Tennessee editor got assaulted ten times in one day because he published an article entitled, "How it feels to be hung" Most every one took it as a personal insult.

An Olympia paper states that a few days since L F Thompson of Puyallup lost his whole crop of hops by fire He had just finished gathering and curing them at a heavy expense He had about 20 000 pounds, valued at $5,000

Agassiz and Nathaniel Bowditch were too poor in early life to purchase the books they needed for their studies, and were compelled to make manuscript copies Those which Dr Bowditch copied are in the Boston Public Library

A New York paper, lamenting over the degeneracy of the age as shown in the decadence of the Democratic party touchingly reverts to the good "old Democratic times" when whisky was sold as low as fourteen cents a gallon.

Omaha received, the other day the biggest grizzly bear skin ever brought to that market It was eight feet long and six and a half wide, and was larger than most buffalo skins. It was of the finest texture, and was valued at $50

The Tehauntepec Railroad will be one hundred and seventy five miles long It will cost $8,821,000 The difference in going from New York to San Francisco, by the Tehauntepec route over the Panama route, will be 1 477 miles, and from New Orleans to San Francisco 2 834 miles saving six days in the one case and nine in the other

Chicago sent out on the 20th its largest mail by a single train, on the Iowa Division of the Northwestern Railroad It consisted of fifty nine paper bags, and five large lock pouches destined for California, and fifty seven paper bags and thirteen lock pouches of Chicago mail matter—making a total of 138 sacks of mail matter, 15,000 pounds in weight

The latest accounts about the financial condition of Turkey are deplorable. The employes of the Government have not been paid for the last nine months Failures are everyday occurrences, and the merchants are in despair The soldiery in the interior are starving, and in the midst of all this desolation the Porte has appropriated 15,000,000 francs for the entertainment of Eugenie.

The Democracy of the South, with few exceptions, including some of the ablest of the old leaders, have taken open ground in favor of the fifteenth amendment They do not fear the ballot in the hands of the freedmen, but recognize it as their right, fairly won. It is different with Asa Packer and George H. Pendleton. They oppose the extension of [illegible] to the [illegible] of colored [illegible] in Pennsylvania and Ohio, while they do not attempt to deny that they are intelligent and [illegible] citizens.

The question of the succession to the Senatorial office in Maine, made vacant by the death of Wm. Pitt Fessenden, is now the subject of discussion in political circles in that State It is said that Governor Chamberlain is to nominate to the vacancy at once, and that General Shepley and the Hon. Anson P Morrill are being most prominently named. Governor Chamberlain and the Hon. James G. Blaine, now Speaker of the House, are named as candidates before the Legislature when the duty devolves upon that body to elect a Senator

OREGON

A Lane county trapper recently got sixty beaver on the Mohawk in eight days

The commencement of work on the Douglas county Court House has been deferred till next spring

During the month of September 8,078 acres of land were disposed of at the Roseburg Land Office

A boy named Robert Neil, thirteen years old, killed a panther on Myrtle Creek, Douglas county, last week, after a hard fight. The animal measured ten feet from tip to tip

During the fiscal year that has just closed, the amount paid by Douglas county for roads and bridges is $4,294 11, besides several appropriations that had not been actually paid at the close of the year.

A letter in the Farmer, written by a person who was present at the California State Fair, says the apples on exhibition presented a very fine appearance, and that Oregon must look to her laurels or California will surpass her in this line. If California beats Oregon apples it will be altogether owing to the shameful neglect of our orchards, which is witnessed in so many parts of our State

Webster's Advice to Fessenden

A writer in the Portland (Me.) Argus concludes a notice of the funeral of the late Senator Fessenden, as follows

"Some thirty-five years ago—and perhaps more—Daniel Webster contemplated a journey to our Western States and Territories, which he had never visited The great statesman felt inclined to have some talented young man to accompany him, and in looking over New England for such a companion his attention was attracted by young Fessenden, and he extended to him an invitation to travel with him. The young man gladly accepted the invitation, for he was ambitious, and felt that it would be an honor as well as an advantage to accompany in his journeyings such a man as Daniel Webster, whose fame, both as a lawyer and as a statesman, was fast looming up before the American people, if it had not already reached its height Young Fessenden did accompany him, and never had cause to regret it.

Many a time and often the young man has told us how much he enjoyed the journey, and what advantages he derived from it, for Mr Webster treated him with great kindness, and gave him much good advice, which he treasured up in his memory Webster told him how hard he had studied, and how careful he was in making out papers when he never let a writ or other legal document pass from his hands until he had read them over three times at least And he further remarked that while many young men were idling away their time, he was trimming the midnight lamp

'Now,' said Webster, 'I have acquired some fame both as a lawyer and an orator, and have made speeches in which have occurred some figures and illustrations often quoted, and which have already passed into mottoes And now, do you suppose these terse sayings were made from the spur of the moment? By no means; they were the result of previous study—and close study, too Some of my best illustrations of thought have been studied and trimmed down when the fishing rod was in my hands The words which so fitly represent England's power, so often quoted and so much praised, were strung together while I stood on the American side of the St Lawrence river, near Niagara Falls, and heard the British drums beaten on the Canada side

"Many other statements he made to young Fessenden which we recollect but which we have no space to make a record of now, all which prove pretty conclusively that there is no royal road to learning Young Fessenden has often told the writer that his journeying with Daniel Webster was the best school he ever attended. And the lessons he received from that great man were never forgotten, hence we come to the conclusion that William Pitt Fessenden was a harder student than many have supposed him to be It is not too much to say perhaps that his keen logic, his terse language, his power of condensation, his clear statements and sharpness in debate may be traced to the lessons which Webster gave him while journeying with him to the West. Young men who are ambitious to excel in their professions will do well to make a note of these things and govern themselves accordingly"

Dutchman— Goo morrer, Pat how you fux?" Irishman— The top o' the mornin' till ye Smitt, d'ye think we'll git rain the day? Dutchman— Kess no ve never hash mooch rain in der dry dime ' Irishman—' Faith an' ye'r right there, Smitt an' thin whiniver it gits in the way o' rainin, the divil a o' dhry wither will we git as long as the wet spell howlds."

Mr. Sutton's Dynamometer.—The Mining and Scientific Press, of San Francisco, of September 25, thus notices the dynamometer recently invented by Mr. John W. Sutton, of this city:

Mr. Sutton, of Portland, Oregon, exhibits [at the Mechanics' Fair] his new dynamometer, a description of which was given in the Mining and Scientific Press several weeks ago. The object is to measure exactly the amount of power that is being used in a machine, for experimental purposes, or for a basis of payment in letting power, a practice now so universal. Strange to say, no perfect or practical dynamometer has hitherto been invented. A remark to this effect in the London Engineer in commenting on several devices shown at the Paris Exposition, drew Mr. Sutton on to this problem; and he considers that the objection of working differently under different circumstances of speed, etc., made against previously invented dynamometers, has been overcome in his.

The principle employed is that of applying springs between the motor and the moved parts, with an index attached, showing exactly how much compression of the springs corresponds to the requirements of the machine at work.

The method of application is as simple as the principle: [illegible] the shaft, the one fast, and the other movable [illegible] attached to the pulley that drives the machine whose power is to be measured. In this manner the pulley may be said to be fastened to the shaft likewise, but indirectly through the springs. A pencil, on an [illegible] recording contrivance, makes record of the exact amount of power extracted at every instant. Mr. Sutton [illegible] the cost of his power measurer at about [illegible] the automatic recorder at about $5. The [illegible] on exhibition measures up to thirteen horse power. It is an invention of much practical importance, [illegible] found in the least degree to answer its purpose. It can be fastened to any shaft, anywhere, without [illegible] and expresses the power in foot-pounds (one [illegible] raised a foot high), which can easily be calculated [illegible] horse power.

[illegible] Railroad Talk.—The Virginia [illegible] Enterprise, in discussing the question of transcontinental railroads, says: "Along the railroad and in Pacific railroad circles, the opinion is very common [illegible] that no other road will, for an age, be [illegible] to be built by any responsible company. [illegible] would be a more open road, with the [illegible] to breathe, instead of shadows, with daylight and grand mountain [illegible] pass, it seems all but certain that [illegible] have to content ourselves in this latitude with [illegible] Pacific route. The great channel is marked [illegible] river of trade and human life is flowing, wearing its banks here, and depositing its flats and terraces [illegible] another crossing will probably be made on Oregon, near the Oregon boundary, for the C. P. R. [illegible] The Southern Pacific Railroad [illegible] will surely be built, and speedily: the undertaking [illegible] in comparison with the first great overland [illegible] since more than a third of the distance will not have to be built by the company at all, viz., [illegible] from the Missouri river to the Rocky Mountains, and the distance between San Francisco and San [illegible] the latter city being the natural terminus of the [illegible] A glance at the map will suffice to convince [illegible] shorter a piece of work this southern [illegible] It remains a question of time, but of no great duration, how soon Montana and Oregon will [illegible] with [illegible] and give real impulse to [illegible] at Puget Sound."

[illegible]—From our regular correspondent, Oct. 4th: [illegible] Telfair arrived here last evening at eight [illegible] left this morning at five.

[illegible] new sawmill at Brookport, Shoalwater Bay, [illegible] the Riddle brothers, has just been commenced running.

[illegible] Government employees at Astoria, employed by [illegible] the superintendent of the new custom [illegible] are still working ten hours per day, notwithstanding the President's proclamation.

[illegible] Oct. 5th—The bark Almatia took in sixty barrels [illegible] hundred and thirty half barrels of salmon at the [illegible] Saturday morning and dropped down to Fort [illegible] took in three hundred and fifty half barrels [illegible] of Mr. Saunders, the sutler at Fort Stevens. [illegible] anchor near Sand Island.

[illegible] Knapp & Co., at Cementville, are to raise the [illegible] their new sawmill this week. It will be the [illegible] on this side of Puget Sound.

[illegible] The following items are from the Statesman:

[illegible] Wilson left yesterday for the Dalles, and Judge [illegible] had before gone to attend to his official duties; [illegible] three Judges remain to constitute the [illegible]. The only business now on hand is from [illegible] District, and will be easily closed out [illegible] week.

[illegible] flouring mills were started a few days [illegible] works well, and the flour made is [illegible]. The first shipment of 150 barrels was [illegible] Saturday last.

[illegible] from Willis Chapman, Esq., who returned [illegible] Albany, that on Friday evening [illegible] around the race-track was badly injured [illegible] fall of his horse. The animal rolled upon [illegible] hour the same evening he was reported [illegible] beyond recovery. Mr. Chapman [illegible] affray at Harrisburg, in which one [illegible] killed and another had a leg broken. The names [illegible] could not recollect, but they are said to [illegible] some months since, and had a personal [illegible] at Harrisburg, with the [illegible] Mr. Chapman attended the [illegible] County Fair on Friday, and reports the presence of [illegible] that many objects of interest were on [illegible] were all having a good time generally.

[illegible] Fair—Exercises To-morrow.—[illegible] at 11 o'clock, the Superintendent [illegible] class 2—tests of strength, [illegible] will complete their work and [illegible] will be a parade of premium animals.

[illegible] will be read at the Pavilion immediately [illegible] race.

[illegible] War Claims.—The report of [illegible] of the Treasury, recently published, [illegible] number of Oregon and Washington war [illegible] in the Indian war of 1855-6, received [illegible] during the year ending Dec. 1st, 1865, [illegible] which the aggregate amount claimed was [illegible] and ten claims were settled or [illegible] amounting, in the aggregate, to [illegible] this amount $11,338 85 were allowed. [illegible] statement of the condition of these [illegible] 1868:

[illegible] on hand [illegible] of June 30, 1868, eight [illegible] twenty-four, amounting to $108,378 32.

[illegible] received during the quarter ending Sept. 30th, [illegible] amounting to $3,632 12.

[illegible] and otherwise disposed of during the [illegible] ending Sept. 30, 1868, thirty, amounting to [illegible] which $5,218 94 were allowed.

[illegible] on hand [illegible] of Sept. 30, 1868, eight [illegible] eight, amounting to $103,416 41.

[illegible]—A few days ago, says [illegible] serious accident occurred across the [illegible] of Samuel Douglass. Three men [illegible] were employed in removing some [illegible] fallen [illegible] the road, leading to the [illegible] placed, a tree which had been on fire [illegible] to fall directly toward the spot where [illegible] at work. Two men managed to effect [illegible] the third man, seeing no chance of escape, [illegible] prostrate upon the ground in the [illegible] came down with a crash, killing one [illegible] and more less injuring the other. [illegible] from instantaneous death was almost [illegible] as the tree struck the ground, two large [illegible] and buried themselves deeply in the earth [illegible] the prostrate man, sustaining the trunk of [illegible] body, and thus saving his life. As it [illegible] a few scratches were received.

[illegible] Fair.—From Mr. Jamison we [illegible] of yesterday's proceedings at the [illegible] County Fair:

[illegible] has been a success in spite of the rains. All [illegible] weather cleared and large numbers were in attendance. The display in the pavilion was good, and [illegible] were on exhibition than ever before.

[illegible] was very heavy. In the race for three [illegible] single dash of a mile—there were four entries. [illegible] contested and won by the Gibson filly. [illegible] race purse was taken by Pathfinder.

[illegible] year old race, half mile and repeat—yesterday [illegible] by Vance's Heenan—Time, 54 and 58.

[illegible] dash of one mile won by Red Morocco—entered [illegible] Time, 2:14.

[illegible] is showing to good houses.

[illegible] for California.—The steamship Pacific [illegible] San Francisco at 6 o'clock last evening. The [illegible] list of passengers:

[illegible], S Almy, Wm W Corcoran, wife and [illegible], Jno Moore, Jno W Leed, L C Henrichsen, [illegible] and wife, Frank McDermott and wife, [illegible], J W Greene, J J Wason, Miss Catherine Wilhelm, D. Harton, David Phillips, O B Brown, [illegible] Lake, Ned Davis, D D Williams, Mrs J A Ripperger, [illegible] & May, Miss Louisa Good, Mrs C Levy, [illegible] Hembre, W G Overbolt, Ben Hayes, B P [illegible] Gustave Rens, Albert A Manger, William [illegible] W H Huer, Chas Petrain, L J W Hidden, L A [illegible] wife, Capt L S Babbit, wife and child, B Freeman, [illegible] Monteith, S H Marsh, Rt Rev F N Blanchet, [illegible] A F Starr, J W Orholt, Col. West (Wells, [illegible] Co.) (ger), and 18 in the steerage.

[illegible] Academy and Female Seminary.—There [illegible] pupils in attendance at this institution. This [illegible] higher than were in attendance at this time [illegible] year. More females have been enrolled this term [illegible] during the entire term ending July 22d, 1869. The [illegible] Department has opened with 15 pupils—11 [illegible] and four young ladies—and is already becoming a [illegible] important and interesting feature of this school.

[illegible] President Marsh of the Forest Grove [illegible] left by the steamer Pacific, last evening, for a [illegible] visit on business connected with the College. [illegible] to return about the first of January.

Fire—Stable Burned.—At about three o'clock yesterday morning, a fire was discovered in a stable or small barn, at the corner of Clay and Sixth street. The alarm brought out the Fire Department, but long before the engines could reach the distant locality, the stable and contents were so much burned as to render it impossible to save anything. The building, we learn, belonged to Dr. Loryea. The hay of which there was about fifteen tons, belonged to Mr. Abraham Waltz. The total loss was probably about $800. The fire was undoubtedly the work of an incendiary. Yesterday morning the person whose business it is to light and extinguish the kerosene street lamps in that neighborhood, discovered that the lamp at the corner of Market and Sixth had been taken away; and later in the day, the remains of it were found in the ruins of the stable, showing by what means the building had been fired.

Telegraph.—It may not be generally known that Ben Holladay designs to construct a line of telegraph along with the railroad. Such, however, is the case. We learn that wire has been ordered for the line, and it will be put up just as fast as the rails are laid down.

Fire Cisterns.—The walls of the cistern at the intersection of Salmon and Seventh streets have been completed, ready for the cement. The cistern at intersection of C and North Ninth streets has been excavated, ready for the masonry.

Another Distinguished Visitor.—Ex-Governor John Wood and wife, of Illinois, are stopping at the Cosmopolitan Hotel, having arrived by the steamship Pacific. They have been to the Dalles, and returned from there on Monday.

Promoted.—We learn that Captain F. C. Sholl who, some weeks ago was in command of the Gussie Telfair, has been appointed to the command of the steamer Active plying between San Francisco and Victoria.

The Willamette River has risen several inches within the last day or two. The prospect is favorable for an abundance of water during the State Fair—for purposes of navigation.

Personal.—Governor Gibbs, who has been for some months in the Eastern States, engaged in professional business, reached home last evening, per steamer Moses Taylor.

Time of Sailing.—The Moses Taylor is advertised to sail for San Francisco on Friday next at 6 P. M. The Gussie Telfair will sail for Victoria on the 12th.

Jamison's stage leaves the American Exchange this morning at 6 o'clock for the Washington County Fair Grounds.

Hotel Change.—Mr. Sewall has sold his interest in the Cosmopolitan Hotel, to his partner Mr. Jacob Sprenger.

That Old, and Still they Come.—It is astonishing, the amount of fine and good Clothing is received every steamer at the store of KOHN & FISHEL, No. 91 First street. Their Stock of Clothing surpasses any Stock ever imported to this State. Having purchased their Stock in New York, they are enabled to sell cheaper than any House this side of San Francisco. Their Stock of Beaver Suits are the neatest suits ever imported to Oregon. Everybody wanting to appear in Style and buy goods cheap should call on Kohn & Fishel. Their stock of Dry Goods is offered AT COST to close that branch of goods.

Remember.—That on Tuesday evening, October 12th, the Nonpareil Lodge, I. O. G. T., will give a Supper and Sociable at the Hall on First street, between Yamhill and Taylor. Tickets can be obtained at the door.

Use KANE'S IMPERIAL CONDENSED SOAP. It washes without rubbing. For sale by Allen & Lewis, Corbitt & McCleay, R. G. Sneath and all retailers.

Appropriate Laborers.—A San Francisco paper gets off the following:

In his "speech" at the Chamber of Commerce rooms, Friday evening, Mr. Mooney stated that he had met a Chinaman on the stairway who was engaged in the menial occupation of scrubbing stairs and cleaning out spittoons. Mr. Mooney raised his voice in protest; Chinamen should not be employed when there were so many of his own race, better fitted for such occupations, lying around the Labor Exchange with nothing to do. He wanted the spittoons and stairs reserved as the special perquisites of the glorious nation which has produced an O'Connell, an Emmet and a Mooney. He demanded as a right——

Mr. Sneath explained that no disrespect was intended toward the white race in tendering the position in question to a Chinaman instead of to the gentleman last up; in fact, the Chamber of Commerce could wash their hands of the whole matter, for the Chinaman was simply a sub contractor, the original job having been let to colored men.

Mr. Mooney attempted to resume his speech, but was choked off, finally, by a combination of the bloated Insurance Companies, assisted by the Bank of California and other influential institutions. And thus truth has been crushed to earth once more.

The oldest of the Government employes at Washington is John D. Barclay, a third-class clerk with the Commissioner of Customs. He occupies a modest, old-fashioned brick house on Eighteenth-street, near Pennsylvania-avenue, from which he has for many years trod his weary way to the Treasury building, the once erect and tall form stooping with age and painful from a chronic disease of which he has long been the victim. For half a century he has been faithful at his post, waiving his right to the furlough of one month in each year.

In Quiet Days.

The dying year grows strangely mild;
Now in the hazy autumn weather
My heart is like a happy child,
And life and I, Friends reconciled,
Go over the hills together.

My peaceful days run sweet and still
As waters slipping over sand,
Seeking the shadows of free will
To gather tenderer lights than fill
Day's over-lavish hand.

The summer wood with music rings,
The singer's is a troubled breast;
I am no more the bird that sings,
But that which broods with folded wings
Upon its quiet nest.

Oh, fairest month of all the year!
Oh, sweetest days in life! they melt;
Within, without, is autumn cheer,
September there, September here,
So tranquil and so sweet.

Oft have I watched all night with grief,
All night with joy, and which is best!
Ah, both were sharp, and both were brief,
My heart was like a wind-blown leaf,
I give them both for rest.

Fair Quiet, close to Joy allied,
But loving shadier walks to keep,
By day is ever at my side;
And all night long with me abide
Peace and her sister Sleep.

Buried Alive.

[From the British Workman.]

Who has ceased to believe that our God works miracles, or that he withholds his hand when the righteous call upon him?

On Tuesday evening, the 16th of March, 1869, ten men and three boys went down into No. 29 Pit, Wallow's Colliery, Lock's lane, Brierly Hill, Staffordshire.

They had often gone down that yawning gulf before, and no doubt were fearless as to any danger being near them. For two hundred yards as they sank into the bowels of the earth, and then each went to his appointed task of hewing out coal, so that the social hearth should be cheered, and the many wants of civilized life should be supplied.

At half past ten o'clock, as usual, they drew to one spot to have their supper in company. No danger then threatened, but each was joyous in his own particular way, and the laugh went round till the time came for them to separate again for work.

At one o'clock on Wednesday morning the engine minder noticed an uprush of vapor from one of the two shafts belonging to the pit. Something was wrong, but what? Oh! all thought it was that dreadful and subtile fire damp again, the collier's foe, that has slain thousands!

What's to be done? Done! why there are two brave men, careless of self, who eagerly volunteer to descend the pit to find out the cause. The "skip" was lowered—but, take care! Yes, there you go, but so eagerly are they let down, that before they are fully aware, and with only time to shout up the pit "water," they are immersed eleven feet deep in the treacherous element. They were soon drawn up, half drowned, and then the full certainty was known; the pit was full of water, and thirteen fellow creatures were down there among the rising surges!

What's to be done now? What's to be done? why, everything and anything that ingenious men may suggest, and that wealth can purchase; and woe to that man who at such a time could be lazy or niggardly, should the noble owner of the pit, Earl Dudley, know.

Swift men on swifter horses ran all ways; the overseers were fetched out of their beds, and Earl Dudley's agent, Mr. Smith, was soon on the spot. And then began the struggle. Nature poured in from her hidden channels volumes of water. Men with steam engines worked hour after hour to draw the water out. And still? Oh, there was one little glimmer of hope, like the small star to the wearied traveler, it cheered them on.

In some parts of the pit the coal lay high up, and therefore some parts of the workings were likely to be dry after others.

Perhaps, lads, the poor fellows, mayhap, have betaken themselves to the high ground, and we may yet help them.

But no chance was left untried, for a neighboring pit or shaft was begun, so that if one way failed, yet another might succeed.

Wednesday and Thursday went on, and the large multitude almost ceased to hope. Friday passed, too, with but little to cheer at first; the water seemed to rise; and then with all the efforts made, it only sank at the rate of two and a half inches in the hour—yet it did sink now, and they were sure of that. Cheer up, lads; work with a will! And work they did. But it began to rain, and should those torrents penetrate through the [illegible] all was over. But still iron engines and sturdy sinews worked on with vigor—it was a race for life!

By noon on Saturday the water was low enough to see the entrance to the working part of the mine. An exploring party descended, and found that there was a space of twenty [illegible] between the water and the roof, and that communication was restored between the two shafts, so that a supply of fresh air was forced [illegible].

But the space was not sufficient between the roof and water for any one to penetrate the workings. At six o'clock in the evening another effort was made, but the foul air drove the explorers back. Again, at ten o'clock, another effort was made, headed by the principal agents; still the entrance to the mine was too small for any one to enter. They shouted one name after another, but no answer came along that waste of water; all was still as death. Again the choke damp came, and three brave men were near losing their lives in the noble effort to save others.

All hope was now gone, nearly four days and [illegible] 30,000 tons of water had been [illegible]—could it be possible that any were alive? The most hopeful felt that their last hope [illegible].

Sunday came, a dull and cheerless day; all thought of saving life was over, but yet the bodies must be fetched up. Thousands of people were assembled around the pit early in the morning, and many sorrowful faces were peering down into the blackness of darkness; [illegible]

Hark! What's that? "Help!" cried a voice; "let the hook down."

Was it a man alive? Yes, that feeble cry had nerved brave men afresh, and many were eager to be let down. The "skip" had got but a short way down when the choke-damp again drove them back; lime was thrown down. Then, after a time, the brave seekers again went down, taking with them a raft.

Pushing through narrow ways, they came upon two men seated upon a wall of coal just above flood-line. They were soon taken on the raft to the "skip" for another voyage, and a lad was discovered. With these three they ascended; there was a solemn silence as the poor famished creatures came into the presence of day, and then a loud cheer broke out, as much for the savers as the saved. The first words of the lad, as he awoke to consciousness were, "Have you sent to tell my mother?"

Half an hour later three more were brought up. For four days the poor fellows had been hidden from sight, without food or light; no wonder they were feeble and wan.

Without food, did I say? Well, not exactly. Sankey (the lad) said that "Tim Taylor gave him bread and butter when he was in the pit, and went without himself!" Oh, noble Tim Taylor! when was such a sacrifice made before? You had food, and who was Sankey? Only a neighbor's lad! I don't know thee, Tim, and yet I'd go a dozen miles to press thy hand because you fed the lad Sankey.

It was "one Jesus" who learnt thee that sentiment, though it was so long since thy good old mother or Sunday school teacher impressed the divine command upon thy mind, thou has forgot the time; but never mind, Tim, you did it.

But this was not all that Tim Taylor did. Two days before he swam to the mouth of the pit, and shouted up—but no one heard him, and he swam back again through those swollen waters with a saddened heart, for hope was gone now.

Back into the darkness he swam, for the candles were used up by this time; but while there was yet light, one man, "Hickman," had written and placed in his tobacco box a paper. Let us see whatever could be the subject chose at such a time:

"Dear wives, we are singing and praying while we are dying. Tell my brothers and sisters to follow God more than I did." Then there were marks × × × intended for kisses for their wives and children. "I write this on Wednesday night, about quarter past six o'clock. Dear parents prepare to meet us in heaven."

A glorious testimony from Hickman; the world was shut out—at least you were shut in, and there could be no reason why you should deceive either yourself or others, And there have been crowned heads which could have rested easier in their dying hour on their pillows of down, if they could only have left their bejeweled chest honest testimony like the one in the old box.

All were not alike; one poor fellow went frantic; casting off his clothes, and leaving his watch with Hickman, he rushed into darkness and was seen no more.

Hickman never lost hope. He seems to have been the prop of the company; and when the candles went out, leaving them in darkness, he says, "I still had hopes that my light had not gone out in heaven." "I told Holden," he said, "to have faith, for though we was left there, God would never leave us." Never mind thy grammar friend Hickman; Lindley Murray never expressed a firmer faith.

But there were six more persons in the pit, were they still alive? All Sunday night the toilers toiled on, and on Monday morning the joyful news came up. "All alive!"

Alive? and without food for five days and nights—about one hundred and twenty-four hours? Yes, up they came, all but one. He, they said, had been too week to follow with them, and they, trying to carry him, found themselves unable to do so. But he must not be lost. Down again. Yes there he is in that "man-hole" alive, but so meager—almost dead, but not quite.

He was brought up; and then through the length and breadth of the land was flashed out, "What hath God wrought?"

When the water first broke out upon them, they turned to the high lands in the mine, and when the waters began to subside, they followed the retreating waters ohin deep, so that the small amount of air which was forced in by the downward pressure of the mighty engine came to them with life in its inhaling.
